Open questions

All thirteen questions were settled on Oct 20. Three stay at Leaning until playtests or the headless runner confirm them. The GDD and Pitch tabs reflect every decision.

Question	Decision	Status
What is the game called?	Dropfront	Decided
What world is it set in?	A dieselpunk war	Decided
What does the map do during your drop-in?	Runs at 25% speed (slow motion)	Decided
How does gear work?	Playing a gear card equips it. Up to 2 in play, both used in every drop-in. Discard one (free, on the map) to swap	Decided
Does gear come from the deck or a separate track?	Cards in the deck, with a normal draw and discard pile	Decided
How strong is the enemy champion?	Strong and rarer: 15 HP, worth 4 bots, about every 30 to 40 seconds	Decided
Does it need a comeback mechanic?	Not yet; add one only if test matches snowball	Leaning
How far does touch go?	Full game; cut drop-ins to desktop if they don't feel good by week 3	Leaning
Does gear need an ongoing cost?	No upkeep; the 2-in-play limit and the energy to play it are the cost	Decided
Does the enemy play tactic cards?	Yes, a full mirror of your tactic cards	Decided
How long is the regroup between drop-ins?	20 seconds (40 if you went down)	Decided
What wins the match?	First to 2000, or the higher score at 8:00; tune after headless tests	Leaning
Orbital strike doesn't fit the world	Renamed Bomber run	Decided